Do I need to register my battery pack to get warranty service?

According to Milwaukee Tool, you do not need to register your battery pack in order to receive warranty service. However, Milwaukee uses the manufacturing date of the product to determine the warranty period if you cannot provide proof of purchase at the time you request warranty service.

What is the warranty period for a battery?

The following warranty periods apply specifically to the USA and Canada. The warranty period is 5 years / 2000 charges from the date of purchase, whichever first occurs. The first 1000 charges or 2 years of the warranty, whichever first occurs, are covered through free replacement of the defective battery.

Should you buy a 10-year battery warranty?

Be skeptical of brands that offer lengthy warranties without a proven track record. For example, brand-new companies promising 10-year warranties may lack long-term data backing up lifespan claims. Instead, look for companies like Crown Battery with a long history of caring for customers.

Is your battery warranty putting you at risk?

The wrong battery warranty puts you at risk if there's a problem. This article will arm you to get the coverage and support you need. Our team has studied myriad battery companies' warranty policies – and asked end-users how warranty claims play out in the real world. And in the next few minutes, you'll discover:.

Do electric car batteries have a warranty?

Still, car manufacturers have stepped up with excellent warranties on EV batteries. Here's what you need to know. Most automakers have an 8 to 10-year or 100,000 miles warranty period on electric car batteries. This is because federal regulation in the U.S. mandates that electric car batteries be covered for a minimum of eight years.
