

Uganda rechargeable energy storage vehicle manufacturing price

Overview

Which companies are recharging electric vehicles in Uganda?

Currently, TotalEnergies, the French oil marketer, is pioneering installing the first network of recharging electric vehicles in 19 service stations in Uganda. Simultaneously, German-Uganda start-up Bako Motors is gearing up to introduce locally-made tricycles and electric bicycles in 2023.

Is Uganda embracing e-mobility incentives?

Uganda has joined the ranks of African nations embracing e-mobility incentives by introducing the Finance Act 2023. Effective January 1, the act reduces customs duties on electric vehicle charging equipment to 10% and slashes the value-added tax (VAT) to 7%.

Will Uganda introduce electric cars by 2025?

The Uganda Ministry of Environment anticipates that these incentives will lead to the deployment of 50,000 electric cars by 2025, significantly reducing the importation and consumption of fossil fuels on the country's roads.
